

October 2016

Dear friends,

Happy Fall everybody! I hope everyone is enjoying watching the leaves change and the (slightly) cooler weather. As the seasons change, it presents a great opportunity to evaluate the Season of life we are in. Whether it be a season of grief, uncertainty, or a season of change. The seasons of life we go through are meant to grow and mold us into the person the Heavenly Father wants us to be.

Whatever season you are in right now stop and listen; be attuned to what God is trying to show you or teach you. Every season we go through is a part of the big picture and they are all connected. Romans 8:28 says "And we know that in all things God works for the good of those who love him, who have been called according to his purpose."

That verse is a great reminder that God is in control and is going to cause all things to work for our good. This doesn't mean that we will always have everything we want or that life will always be easy. It means that God already sees the big picture and has big things in store for his people.

Life can be hard at times but we need to remain in tune with God's plan and purpose and what each season of life is meant to teach us. Our Father wants all of us, fully 100% completely obedient. Even when it scares us or makes us uncomfortable. You may find yourself, like me, in a situation where you are being called to leave everything and be a teacher in another country for a year. Even when we are called away from what we know and what makes us comfortable, God is with us always. Being obedient, even when it scares us, is what brings us closer in our relationship with Jesus

Every single one of us is called to serve. Whether it be across the street, or across the world. Find what God has for you to do and do it full-out, wholeheartedly.

In Christ,
Rebekah Lowrey

"We wait in hope for the Lord; He is our help and our shield. In Him our hearts rejoice, for we trust in His Holy name. May Your unfailing love be with us, Lord, even as we put our hope in you."

Psalm 33:20-22